

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

One for her club and her own latch key Another wastes in study her good nights.
Ah, take the clothes and let the culture Nor heed the grumble of the Woman's Rights!

Look at the shop girl all about us—
The wages of a month, she says, "I blow
The dust, and when my hair is waved, Doubtless my friend will take me to the show."

And she who saved her coin for flannels red,
And she who caught pneumonia, instead,
With colds and when my hair is waved,
And Prudence pays no premium to the dend.

The exclusive style you set your heart upon,
Gels to the bargain counters—and anon,
Like monograms on a saleslady's tie, Cheers but a moment—soon for you 'tis gone.

Think in the sad "Four Hundred's" sided
Whose endless leisure ev'n themselves appalls.
How pink pong raged so high—then faded out To those far suburbs that still chase its bells.

They say Sixth Avenue and the Bowery keep
The "dernier cri" that once was far from cheap,
Green veils, one season chic—department stores
Mark down in vain—no profits shall they reap.

SPRING

By BESSIE CHANDLER.

AS little children gather round their mother,
And beg her a familiar tale to tell,
One that is dearer far than any other,
Because so often heard, and known so well;
And, as they question, prompting should she falter,
And any variation quickly see—
And cry, "Don't tell it so—don't change or alter!
We want it just the way it used to be!"

So we do come to thee, O Nature, mother!
And never tire of list'ning to thy tales, Tell us thy springtime story now—no other—
That hath a wondrous charm that never fails!
Tell it with all the old-time strength and glory,
Tell it with many a happy song and shout;
Don't miss one bird or blossom in the story,
Don't leave one daffodil or daisy out!

Don't miss one shade of all the trees' soft greenings, Don't miss one blade of grass, one bee, one wren,
These little things have grown so full of meaning
In the old story we would hear again!
O Mother Nature, thou art old and hoary,
And wonderful and strange things thou canst tell,
But we, like children, love thy springtime story,
And love it best because we know it well!

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.

EX-PRISONERS GIVE FINE SATISFACTION

Number of Men Placed in Positions and Organization Doing Good Work.

It was shown at the last meeting of the directors, that in the month of May the Richmond branch of the Ex-Prisoners Aid Society of Virginia, did more work than in the previous three months. A report of the Agent, George H. Wiley, showed that a number of men had been placed in desirable positions for work and board. Letters were received from employers saying that the men were giving satisfaction, and that they seemed to be satisfied themselves.

In the short history of the society it has been found that it is better to send men away from the city if they will go. This was done in all but two cases in the past month, transportation, labor, boarding place all being arranged for by the agent. The meeting was held at the home of the President, Mr. Burnett Lewis, who recently so stirred the meeting at Petersburg by his impressive effort among convicts, for the past ten years.
This practical work for the ex-prisoner is not all that is being done. Every Sunday Mr. Wiley spends the day at the State Farm doing religious work among the several hundred convicts who are there, many of whom are sick. In many other ways this new organization is helping this large class of men and their families.
